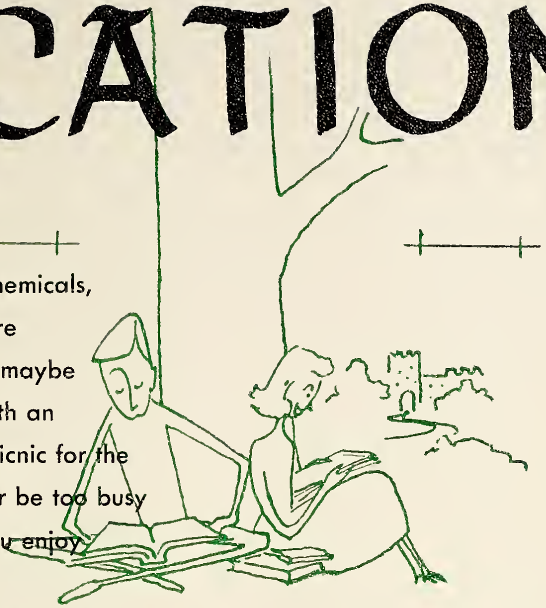
THE STUDENT BODY . . .

MONTEVALLO, ALABAMA

DEDICATION



Down in the Pot Shop among old assortments of chemicals, glazes, kilns, and clay, you're apt to find Miss Allen. Or maybe she'll be helping a student with an unwieldy mobile or be on a picnic for the foreign students. She'll never be too busy to pause a second, to help you enjoy life as she does.

We'd like to say "Thank you, Miss Allen," by dedicating our 1955 MONTAGE to you.

OUR GOVERNOR

Governor James E. Folsom, President of the Board of Trustees of Alabama College, was inaugurated for his second term of office in January of this year.

OUR BOARD OF TRUSTEES

James E. Folsom	Montgomery
Horace T. Armstrong	Scottsboro
Mrs. Roswell Flakenberry	Selma
Mrs. A. G. Finlay	Guntersville
Nelson Fuller	Centreville

OUR PRESIDENT...

Dr. Franz Edward Lund

The quiet dignity with which he leads the Lord's Prayer at convocation, his thoughtful observations on values, his gentle way of problem-solving, his friendly salutations as he walks round the campus . . . All these things go to make up the man who makes Alabama College what it is to us.

DR. LUND

DR. and MRS. LUND and their daughter, SIEGRID

OUR DEAN

Dr. Richard Powers

It's so nice to be able to talk to somebody about that course we especially wanted to take or that schedule that just wouldn't work or that personal problem that nobody else would bother to listen to. In the office on second floor Palmer, or backstage during one of his delightful extracurricular performances, or just around campus, Dean Powers is always there to sympathize, correct, or just listen.

OUR BUSINESS MANAGER

Mr. Lee A. Barclay

We've sat in the line outside his office on registration day to talk over those money problems; we've returned his friendly nod as he drives around campus on business; we've shared the happiness of the house on the corner; and we've come to the conclusion that we couldn't do without our business manager and friend, Mr. Lee Barclay.

OUR DEAN EMERITUS

Dr. T. H. Napier

"How's Dean Napier?" is the first thing an alumna asks. We answer that he still gets a standing ovation when he speaks in convocation, that he still greets each girl with affection and the look that says, "I'm here when you need me." And we agree with the alumnae that A. C. wouldn't be the same without Dean Napier.

OUR DEAN OF STUDENTS

Dean Gibson

Remember the Junior Dance and the Pensacola Cadets? Remember the job you needed or the time you just wanted to talk to someone? Then, of course, you remember the gracious lady who helped you out—Dean Gibson.

OUR ADMI

Dr. M. L. Orr

Director of Summer School

We can't imagine going anywhere near the education office in Palmer without running into Dr. Orr, who quietly and casually directs summer school and student teaching.

Mr. Ralph W. Sears

Director of Public Relations

We like to open a hometown newspaper and find out latest accomplishments preserved in the black and white of a publicity photo —the "public" has a chance to know how grand everything is at A. C. thru the work of Mr. Ralph Sears. He also finds time to direct WRSD and other campus radio activities.

Miss Virginia Hendrick

Registrar

It wouldn't seem like registration unless Miss Hendrick was on hand to red pencil those impossible schedules, go over a forbidding check sheet of credits, or explain the puzzle of catalog numbers.

STRATION

Dr. Vorha Haffner
Physician

Somewhere between red and grey capsules, infra-red, and plenty of massage, we girls get relief from all sorts of ailments—from flu to home-sickness — in the capable hands of Dr. Haffner.

Miss Ibbie Jones
Food Supervisor

The office between the upper-class and freshman dining halls is the scene of incidents ranging from Miss Jones' planning an extra-special meal for a big campus banquet to her advising a harrassed freshman on the practicality of hot-dogs for a camp-house party. All of us are familiar with and appreciate her excellent meals.

Miss Helen Newton
Alumnae Secretary

An office on first floor King House holds pamphlets, card files, and a most capable and gracious alumnae secretary, who adds to A. C.'s enrollment and, we might add, to its charm.

MRS. WILLS
Social Director and Assistant to Dean of Students

MRS. HOOD
Manager of the Supply Store and Postmistress

MRS. RATLIFF
Secretary to the President

O U R

We thank these people for making A. C. more livable by tending to the details that keep us going. Besides, they've been wonderful personal friends. They seem to share with each new class and all the old classes the pride of being part of Alabama College.

Mrs. Witty, a charming housemother, watches over her "girls" in Hanson, the sophomore dormitory.

MRS. MARSHALL

Main Dormitory

MRS. EGERTON, MRS. ROHRER

Main Dormitory, the largest of the dormitories, has two housemothers, Mrs. Rohrer and Mrs. Egerton, to look out after the freshmen.

MISS DAWN KENNEDY
Head of the Art Department

Miss Kennedy believes that art is for everyone. In her colorful office, on the walls of second floor Comer, we watch the work of her students progress and see that she is proving it.

ART DEPARTMENTS

At the pot shop, in the crafts room, or in the room with all the easels, students of art, majors or non-majors, can be sure of individual attention and a chance for personal expression. Art majors are active on campus with posters, displays, and art history lectures. They are well-prepared to create and teach others the way to creativity.

Art workshops, costume design, commercial art, interior design, painting—there are opportunities for everyone in the Art Department of Alabama College.

Students looking at an exhibit

Constructive criticism

First floor Bloch with its atmosphere of knowledge waiting to be imparted and bottled horrors is familiar to every freshman biology student who soon begins to look forward to labs and lab sheets. "Quant" and "qual" and talk of rabbits distinguish those students who, in the biology department, may prepare for careers of teaching, research or professional work. The number of graduates who have distinguished themselves in graduate and professional work is evidence of the work done in this department.

Paramecium problems

Examining slides

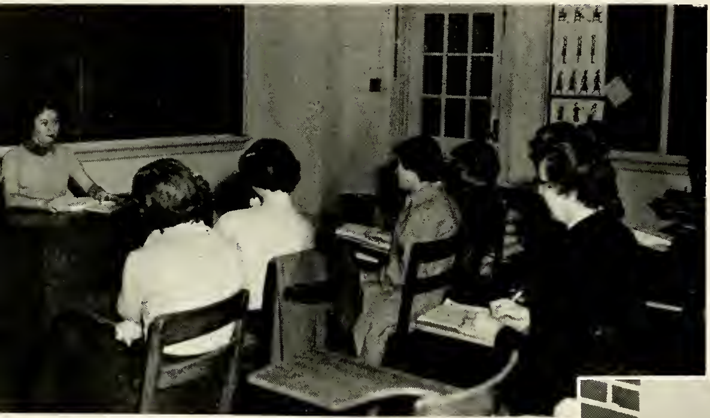
BIOLOGY DEPARTMENT

MR. C. G. SHARP

Head of the Biology Department

"Papa Sharp" livens up sessions of botany, "bac-T", and embryology with jokes, and field trips to the greenhouse to see a certain zamia plant. Naturally the "ologies" became more meaningful when taught by him.

Working with children



Practice teaching

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Ever have to dash wildly to the high school for an observation class? Or slave over a lesson plan? Or escort energetic three-year-olds across the campus? Or hunt up a pair of medium heels for that semester of practice teaching? Then you know what the education department means by practical experience and you also know why A. C. can be proud of its girls who have gone into the teaching profession.

DR. M. L. ORR
Head of the Education Department

It wouldn't seem like summer school or the education office unless Dr. Orr was on hand, surrounded by geniality and pipe smoke.

Freshman English

Research in the Lib

DR. EVA GOLSON

Expert pie, cake, and cookie baker, excellent teacher of subjects ranging from Freshman English to Beowulf and Chaucer — this can only begin to describe Dr. Golson. She grounds A.C.'ers with appreciation for increasing fluency and skill in their natural language.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Freshman English with all its themes and book reports and Sophomore Lit with term papers and poetry help us "naturally talkative" girls to become more skilled in expression and to appreciate fine literature. Courses in creative writing, grammar, journalism, and drama help the students who want to study further in the field of English.

DR. LORRAINE PIERSON

Head of the Foreign Language Department

Dr. Pierson may be found on third floor Comer teaching French or German discussion, at the swimming pool enjoying a recreational swim, or anywhere on campus seeing to the comfort of foreign students. Her anecdotes of her life of study abroad, her deep knowledge of the languages she loves, and her personal attention to students make her a beloved part of the A. C. picture.

The students in a class on third floor Comer are listening attentively as a foreign student talks to them in Spanish. Across the hall girls are laughing at the cartoons in a French magazine. The Foreign Language Department teaches the students to speak foreign languages and helps them to understand foreign countries.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

Foreign students on campus

DR. LOIS A. ACKERLY

Head of the Home Economics Department

Students say of this calm lady that she remembers anyone she meets and that she is always available when advice is needed. "Only one of two things to worry about . . . " has comforted many a freshman.

Bloch and "this ole house" are intimately associated with the home economics department. You may see its students observing at the nursery school, modeling in a fashion show, doing retail work at Loveman's, or planning for an important meal. Its majors—retail, vocational, educational—excel in their field, and others graduate to the biggest test of all—home and the family.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

Setting a table

Surveying

Many students and visitors stopped to peruse the wealth of material presented in the mathematics exhibit on second floor Comer this spring. Such an exhibit and courses ranging from functional mathematics to theory of equations help make mathematics more meaningful to students.

Dean Powers, Mr. Barclay, Mrs. Pitts, and Miss Braswell are all members of the mathematics faculty.

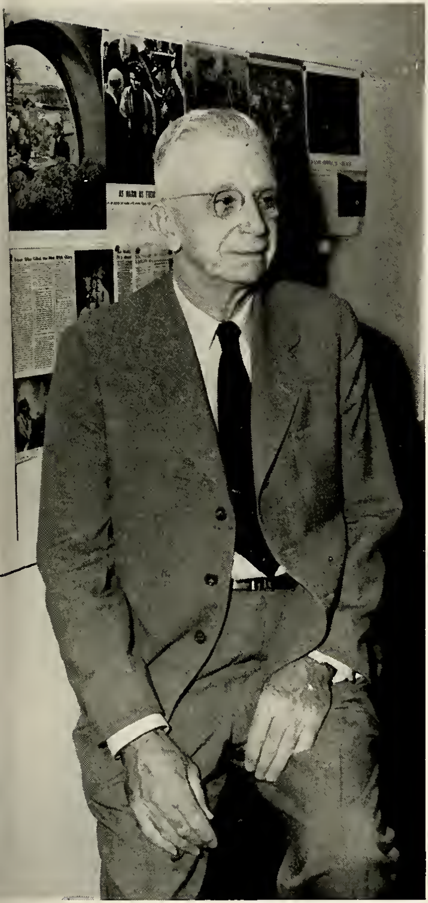
MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

MISS MAMIE BRASWELL

Head of the Mathematics Department

Perhaps you've encountered her keen sense of humor in analytical geometry or in trig or maybe at a bridge game. Calculus and the secrets of investment and finance seem less forboding when introduced by Miss Braswell.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT



MR. H. D. LeBARON

Head of the Music Department

In freshman harmony or in discussing "kinesthetic wiggle" with non-music majors, Mr. LeBaron helps us to find our way to express through music appreciation. "Everybody loves Mr. LeBaron" is the truest and shortest way of saying what we want to say.

Pleasant and familiar sounds come from the direction of Calkins Hall as students are practicing, perhaps, for a senior recital. The orchestra, chorus, and concerts in voice, piano, organ, and violin give the A. C. student a better understanding and appreciation of music.

Choral work

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Everyone enjoys fun and the physical education department at A. C. is the one to help you have it. Swimming, canoeing, golf, tennis, modern dance, and camping are just a few of the courses offered. Majors graduate with excellent opportunities for careers while non-majors enjoy sports more because of their increased skill.

DR. MARGARET McCALL

Head of the Physical Education Department

Neatly-dressed Dr. McCall efficiently runs the physical education department. Whether teaching her majors advanced techniques or working with a freshman who doesn't know how to hold a badminton racket, she makes us quietly aware of her capability as a teacher and an administrator.

Aiming for a bull's eye

This is how I beat Ben Hagan

MR. W. J. KENNERLY

Head of the Physical Science Department

"Make numbers work for you" is the sound advice of Mr. Kennerly. His extra-curricula interests, the surprise parties, the lively anecdotes, plus a sincere interest in his work make Mr. Kennerly an effective and enjoyable teacher.

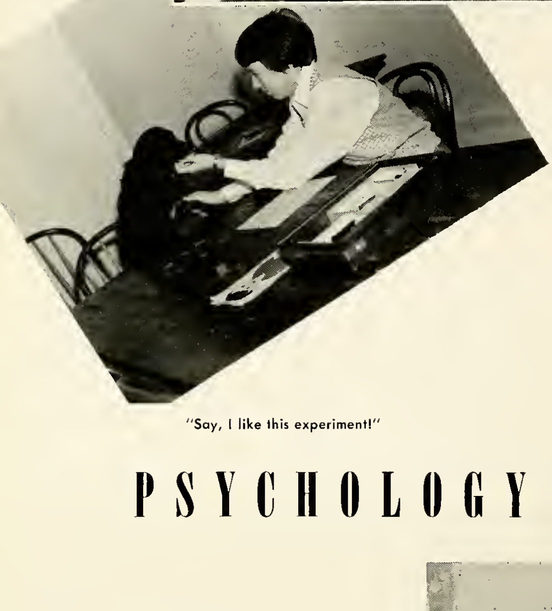
The fumes from the chemistry lab in upstairs Bloch let you know, unmistakeably, that you're in the Physical Science Department. Here you're apt to see freshmen struggling over the metric system and seniors taking their final courses in chemistry or "quant" before going into careers as scientists or teachers.

PHYSICAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Chemistry experiment

Class project

Psychology lecture



"Say, I like this experiment!"

Over in King House a student is learning to give tests while in Comer another is struggling with child psychology. Thus the psychology department is at work training students in all phases of psychology. Included under this department are thought-provoking courses in religion and philosophy.

PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT

DR. KATHERINE VICKERY

Head of the Psychology Department

Besides respecting her for her national acclaim as president of Kappa Delta Pi and for her work in A.A.U.W., we respect Dr. Vickery for her personal integrity and dignity. Students remark that they could "tell her anything." She has another ardent admirer — a well-known spaniel around campus — Charcoal.

SECRETARIAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

MISS LELAH BROWNFIELD

Head of the Secretarial Science Department

Miss Brownfield practices what she preaches to her students — good grooming and varied cultural interests. Not only does she assure her girls of excellent training, but she takes an active interest in helping them secure the positions for which they are well-qualified.

Balance sheets and machines called "educators", bookkeeping, shorthand, typing, dictaphones—all of these are familiar in that corner of third floor Comer. The graduates of this department are modern young women with promising careers. One of the highlights of the year was a conference held on campus to show the careers possible for secretaries.

SOCIAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

DR. HALLIE FARMER

Head of the Social Science Department

We could write a book in merely listing Dr. Farmer's achievements in her field and extolling her for the renown she's brought to A.C. but we could take more space to tell how we appreciate her deep interest in us and A.C., how we like her brilliant conversations about whatever we're interested in, and how much we admire her for her gentle humor and personal charm.

Preparing Christmas gifts for needy children

Returning from a field trip

Social Science is a broad field. You see its students in the library reading the latest in political science or economics, or in the dormitory studying five-hour history, or leaving the campus to do case work. Its graduates go out confidently into careers as teachers, social workers, or administrators.

SPEECH DEPARTMENT

DR. LAURA WRIGHT

Head of the Speech Department

"Speech is learned; therefore it must be taught." In her first year here at Alabama College Dr. Wright has endeared herself to her students and friends with her delicate wit and enthusiasm and by her broad view of the field of speech.

Using a mike

Class criticism

In first floor Comer a class is learning to help children in need of speech correction. In the radio station others are learning to announce and engineer. In Palmer a group is rehearsing for a play. The debate team is making plans for a trip. That's just a sample of the things that go on in the speech department.

We tend to look back at all the work that went into this year's Montage—the rush of appointments for class pictures during the first week of school, the intensive planning and work that went into Elite Night in October, the hundreds of takes and re-takes of photographs, the thought behind the copy, the out-of-town trips and letters for the ad section—all of these combined with the thrill of producing a book. We hope that in the years to come the students will pick up their annuals often and remember fondly 1955 as it was recorded in the Montage.

THE ALABAMIAN

The steady click of typewriters up on second floor Reynolds, a photographer present at every important event, the crowd at the P. O. when the new issue comes out—these mean Alabamian to A. C. students. This year's paper deserves a "pat on the back" for the excellent job done in covering the news.

"This is WRSD, the voice of Alabama College in Montevallo." What makes WRSD what it is? The tape recorders, formats, boom mikes, or the girls who train for engineers and practice reading the news for announcer auditions? The enthusiasm of the A.C'ers who enjoy WRSD as an extra-curricula activity and the know-how of the girls training for professional radio work are making WRSD, five years old this year, a popular campus activity with six and one-half hours of programing, of interest to the students.

We made some changes in College Night this year. The leaders and their writers were chosen early in December. The selection of the rest of the cabinet was in February as usual. After the cabinets were selected, each student went over to Tut and signed up for either Gold or Purple.

GOLD LEADERS: Betty Zane Dauthit, assistant leader; Martha Fulton, leader.

And then the work began! Art, costumes, props, staging, lighting, and later on, reheorsals and make-up. And behind the scene, whether in the smoker, at a pep meeting, or in Palmer, we found new friends as we worked with one thing in mind—a good College Night for '55.

COLLEGE NIGHT

The lead-out

COLLEGE

THE PURPLE - GOLD PARTY

The Saturday night before College Night, both sides came together for the GOPLE Party. Tapped with a "magic wand" by a Purple or a Gold fairy, everyone made a wish at the wishing well and then entered into GOPLE LAND. Then came entertainment, the presentation of the cabinets, and refreshments.

NIGHT

Then it was all aver until next year.

Last May a group of strange creatures were seen wandering around A.C. campus looking for something at most unusual hours. No, it wasn't an invasion from Mars—just the Juniors looking for the Crook, the symbol of seniority. Crook Week started on Thursday night with Crook Convocation and continued through Friday with the Juniors performing all requests of the Seniors. Finally, on Saturday morning, the Crook was found. After proving that they were worthy of becoming Seniors at Crook Court on midnight Saturday, the Juniors were granted full rights as Seniors.

Debaters from India

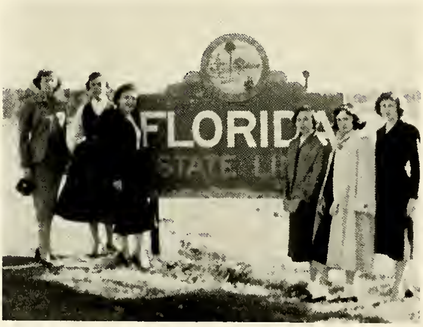
"Join the debate team and see the world."



Any time you say "debate" to a couple of debaters, their faces light up and they immediately start talking, "Remember the fun we had on that trip to . . . " The place might be Florida, Kentucky, Michigan, or almost anywhere.

Debaters spend hours studying in the library; they work hours on debate cases; but they spend most of their time telling their friends what fun they've had on the trips.

RECREATION ASSOCIATION

The Recreation Association is responsible for the variety of recreational activities on campus. Campus parties, square dances, step-singing, and intra-mural sports are all a part of the planning of the "Rec. Board."

Counselors

INTRA-MURAL SPORTS

Competition in volleyball, softball, basketball, tennis, and swimming finds a good place in intra-mural sports. Each dormitory plays for points in various events. At the end of the year, these points are tabulated, and a loving cup is presented to the winner.

VOLLEYBALL

Full of spirit and fun volleyball plays a big role in the recreation programs on campus. At the end of the year one of the big competitive events is the intra-mural volleyball tournament.

SOFTBALL

"Batter up!" Each spring these familiar words come from the grounds near the field house and tell that spring and softball time are here again.

ARCHERY

"Robin Hood at Alabama College" lives once again with the bows, arrows, and targets below the field house. Students may select the equipment best suited for them from a wide variety of bows and arrows.

Fast becoming a favorite campus spot are the tennis courts behind Bibb Graves Hall. Whether in classes or "just for fun", tennis plays a large part in campus recreation.

MODERN DANCE

A class in modern dance

One of the populor activities on campus —class-wise or extra-curricula—is the modern dance. Harriet Ann Gray, a professional dancer, gave a demonstration this fall and then taught the students new techinques.

One of the highlights of the year is a program presented by the students in dance at the end of the year.

Tumbling

ACROBATS—DANCING

Alabama College offers a variety of sports-tumbling, social dancing, square dancing, swimming in a modern new pool, and canoeing at the college lake.

CASTING

The latest addition to the Physical Education curriculum is a course in casting. Girls learn to handle the equipment properly and occasionally startle themselves with a "catch".

RETURNING FROM GOLF

Golf has rapidly become the favorite campus sport. New putting greens add to the beauty of the course.

A PROFESSIONAL GIVES A DEMONSTRATION

Girls eager to learn more about golf watched a professional this fall. Advanced courses have been added to the curriculum which once offered only beginning golf.

THE Seniors

There's nothing quite like living in Tutwiler Dorm and the elegance of being a senior. After four years of waiting, the seniors can at last march on the underclassmen in the ungodly hours of the night and threaten their juniors with Crook Week.

They've had good times together this year—Elite Night, the dances, College Night, the trip to Florida, and don't forget those midnight snacks.

THE Juniors

A hello from Mrs. Marshall and a meow from "Ninky-Poo" greets the Ramsayite and gives her the first glimpse of her junior year.

A year packed with Junior week-end, with camphouse fun, dates with the cadets from Pensacola, the anticipation of a black buzzard visit in the early morning, and the finale of Crook Week tells a bit of the Junior year at A. C. as it is just between us girls.

Cramming for exams

THE Sophomores

With the sophomore year comes the thrill of being an upperclassman and living on back campus.

The Sophomores were a busy class this year—buying seniors during Drives Week, yelling, "Beat Main!" at the volleyball game, and decorating for their dance. It's almost time for Mrs. Witty's "girls" to move to Ramsay.

Fire escape fun

THE Freshmen

After finally telling their parents good-bye, the freshmen began their important work of making new friends, exploring the campus, and finding out all there is to know about our college. English 101 and 5-hour history seemed to take up so much of the time they wanted to spend in the tea house. And those horrible fire drills! Gradually they got to know each other, elected their officers, and showed that they had all the spirit to make their class "tops".
